Dear Dr. Evans:

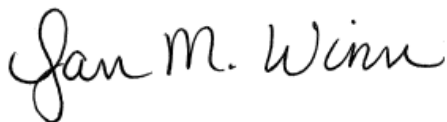

The nuclear medicine technology program at University of the Incarnate Word is scheduled for self-study submission and on-site evaluation in 2022. The Joint Review Committee on Educational Programs in Nuclear Medicine Technology (JRCNMT) chose to move some programs, with their approval, to a later year to achieve greater consistency in the number of programs undergoing reaccreditation annually.

The JRCNMT reviewed the accreditation history, length of service of the current program director, history of substantive changes, and graduate outcomes of each program scheduled for reaccreditation in 2022. Based on review of these criteria, the nuclear medicine technology program at University of the Incarnate Word was identified as a candidate for extension of accreditation. The program director was contacted earlier this year and confirmed the program's willingness to make this change.

On October 22, 2021, the JRCNMT voted to extend the program's accreditation two years. This moves the next review for continued accreditation from 2022 to 2024. Annual reports will continue to be required each summer.

Notification of this decision will be forwarded to the institution's accrediting agency. The information will also be made available to the public on the JRCNMT website. The JRCNMT extends best wishes for continued success in the operation and on-going improvement of this educational program.

Sincerely,

Jan M. Winn, MEd, RT(N), CNMT
